BRITAIN BALKS AT PUNITIVE ACTION IN SPAIN

Britain Rejects Joint Punitive Measure Move

Will Not Agree With Demands By Italian Government Regarding Spain

SERIOUS CRISIS IN PEACE EFFORTS

Germany And Italy Remain Aloof From Non-Intervention Agreement

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, June 5.—A serious crisis developed today in British efforts to bring Germany and Italy back to the non-intervention committee seeking to keep foreign soldiers and war materials out of Spain.

Britain informed Italy point blank the British government cannot agree in advance to joint punitive measures—such as demanded by the Italian government—in the event ships participating in the non-intervention patrol around Spain are subjected to attack.

Britain Against Plan

In no circumstances whatever, Italy was told, will Britain participate in any such retaliatory measures as the recent bombardment of the Spanish Loyalist port of Almeria by German warships.

The bombardment of Almeria was carried out in retaliation for the aerial bombardment of the German pocket battleship Deutschland by Spanish Loyalist airplanes off the Baleraric Islands.

Italy and Germany are both aware that British and French anxiety and sentiment are stiffening in regard to the fate of non-intervention and international efforts to keep the civil war within the boundaries of Spain.

The crisis that developed as a

Germany-Italy Band Together

Report "Defensive Military Entente" Against Communism Formed

(International News Service)

ROME, June 5.—Italy and Germany today banded together in a "defensive military entente" against Communism.

Although not formally announced by either of the powers, it was learned that Premier Mussolini and War Minister Werner von Blomberg of Germany had concluded a pact of mutual support in the event of Soviet aggression in Spain.

The pact, according to Virginio Gayda, editor of the semi-official Giornale D'Italia, is necessary to counteract the influence and power of Russia in the Spanish civil war.

"Italy and Germany are associating their spirits and forces," he said, "in defense of their great national values, in which are also associated many common European values."

Mickey Cochrane To Leave For His Home In Detroit

Detroit Manager Sufficiently Recovered To Make Train Trip To His Home

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 5.—Manager Mickey Cochrane of the Detroit Tigers, who suffered a triple skull fracture from a "bean ball" ten days ago, will leave St. Elizabeth's hospital tonight for his Detroit home. Dr. Robert Emmett Walsh announced today.

Dr. Walsh and Dr. McClure, Detroit physician and friend of the injured catcher-manager, decided in a consultation that he had sufficiently recovered to make the trip, and set 6 o'clock this evening for the start.

Cochrane will travel in a special car and will be accompanied by Dr. McClure, a nurse and Mrs. Cochrane, who rushed to his side when Pitcher Bump Hadley of the Yankees felled him last week.

While he will be confined to his bed several more weeks, his condition is good and is cheerful, hospital attaches reported.

"I'll be glad to get home again," he said smiling, when told his repeated request for permission to leave the hospital finally had been granted.

Duke And Bride Reach Their Honeymoon Castle

NOETSCH, Austria, June 5.—The Duke of Windsor and his laughing American-born bride settled down happily today in their honeymoon castle, Schloss Wasserleonburg, and made plans for their immediate future.

The most pressing problem facing the joyful Duke, one he is expected to solve in the next few days, was whether and how he could stop being the world's "public character No. 1."

That he holds this position at the moment was illustrated by his trip across Europe from France to his Carinthian retreat—a trip that was more a popular triumph than just a train ride.

The Duke, it was learned, favors taking the opportunity of fading

Murray Silent On Parley With Ohio Governor

Attention Diverted To Move To Close Ore Mines In Michigan And Minnesota

AWAIT PEACE MOVE BY GOVERNOR DAVEY

Car Of Food Is Taken Into Plant At Struthers—Skirmish Ensues

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., June 5.—Still silent on what results his conferences with Governor Martin L. Davey produced, Philip Murray, chairman of the Steel Workers Organizing committee was scheduled to return to Pittsburgh today, his attention diverted temporarily from the strike battle-front here to the ore fields of Minnesota and Michigan.

Two Republic Steel Corporation mines in Iron Wood, Mich., were closed down as the union continued its warfare against Republic, Inland Steel Corporation and Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company, representing one-sixth of the five billion dollar industry's capacity. Other shutdowns may follow, it was intimated.

Await Governor's Move

Along the miles of picket lines on the battle front, field workers were concerned with keeping the SWOC pickets alert and active as the "Strike or Starve" ultimatum was rigidly enforced while awaiting Gov. Davey's next move in an attempt to bring the embattled forces, union and labor, "a little closer together" and end the walkout which threw approximately 80,000 steel men out of work

Whether the next move, however, will eventuate from Washington or Columbus was problematical.

Indicating that the door to peace was still ajar, Gov. Davey said he would again contact the heads of

Postal Policy Is Unchanged

No "Unusual" Packages To Be Delivered To Strike-bound Plants

STATEMENT RESULT OF WARREN EPISODE

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Postal officials stood pat today on the policy of refusing to deliver "unusual" mail parcels to individuals in strike-bound plants.

J. M. Donaldson, deputy first assistant postmaster general, said he had received no complaint from the Republic Steel Corporation against the policy, but that if one was received the company would be informed of the policy.

Restatement of the department's policy arose from efforts to parcel post food packages to non-striking workers in the Warren (O.) plant of the Republic company. Acting on orders from Washington, the postal officials at Warren refused to accept them.

Only Normal Deliveries

"It has been a policy of many years to carry out only normal deliveries in troubled zones," said Donaldson.

Chicago Mayor Orders Republic To Remove Men

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

CHICAGO, June 5.—Mayor Edward J. Kelly today gave the Republic Steel Company forty-eight hours to remove the loyal workers in its strike ridden south Chicago plant.

The mayor invoked a clause in the city health ordinance which forbide the housing of people in buildings not intended for such a purpose.

The mayor handed local officials of the firm a formal notice of the evacuation order and added police would be called upon to compel compliance with the ordinance if the company failed to do so willingly.

The firm has kept up production in the strike bound plant since the steel strike started ten days ago by maintaining a crew of loyal workers inside the picket factory.

Agree To Delay Action On Court Proposals

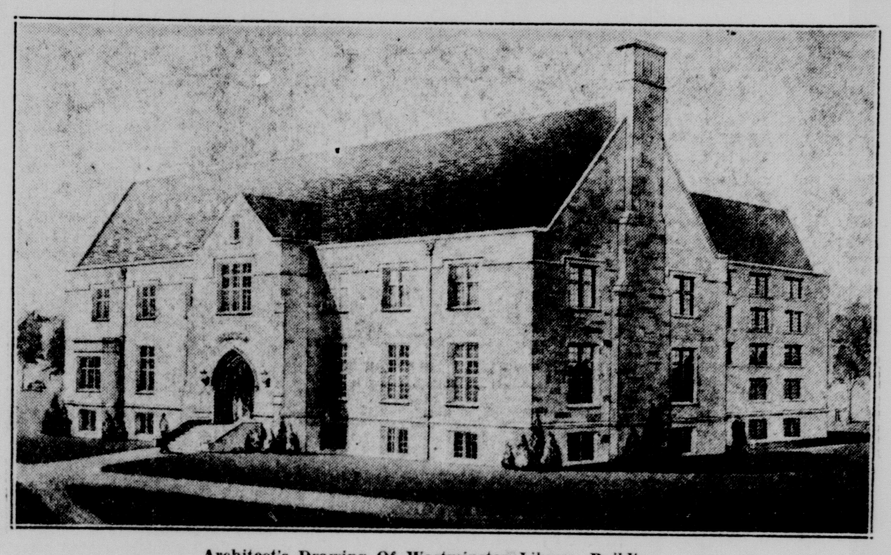
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 5.—A gentlemen's agreement between friends and foes of President Roosevelt's supreme court bill under which action on the measure will be postponed until after the senate has disposed of all appropriation bills, including the $1,500,000,000 relief fund, was reported in effect today.

Opponents of the court plan, ready to launch debate next week, favored the postponement because they did not wish to be put in the position of blocking action on the necessary relief and other appropriations. They will offer no objection to immediate action on money bills but will try to interpose the court bill against any other legislation.

Friends of the president's bill welcomed the delay in order to seek majority support for a compromise. This was said to be in line with the president's wishes, expressed to Senator Joe T. Robinson, Democratic leader,

Cornerstone Ceremony Today At New Westminster Library



Architect's Drawing Of Westminster Library Building

NEW WILMINGTON, June 5.—Rounding out a $750,000 building program during the last ten years, Westminster's new McGill Memorial Library, a $135,000 structure of Pennsylvania sandstone in collegiate gothic design, was officially introduced to alumni, faculty, students, and friends of the college this afternoon in the unveiling of the corner-stone.

Dr. John McNaugher, class of 1880, president of Pittsburgh Theological seminary, spoke at the dedication exercises on "The Value of Books." Assisting in the unveiling of the new college unit were President R. F. Galbreath and Dr. McElwee Ross, McKeesport board president.

Into the corner-stone metal vault were placed the names of all of the donors to the new library; a copy of the 1937 Argo, edited by Earle Hite, Roaring Spring; commencement day edition of the Holcad, student newspaper, co-edited by Earl Wright, Bellevue, and Richard Nelson, Lander, and other bits of collegiana.

The new three-story structure, to be officially dedicated at homecoming, October 9, according to plans, will face Browne Hall, freshman women's dormitory, and form a quadrangle with the gymnasium, and Old Main memorial on the other ends. Features of the new structure will be a student browsing room, and a faculty club room in addition to the regular library units.

Old Grads And Former Students Flock Back To Westminster Campus

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, June 5.—The campus of Westminster college hummed with activity this afternoon as students and townspeople and alumni and friends assembled to watch two of the most colorful ceremonies on Westminster's pre-commencement program—the laying of the new Ralph McGill Memorial library cornerstone at 3:45 and the coronation of the college May Queen tonight at 7.

Crowd Mounts Thru Day

For all Westminster it was one busy day. The crowds that gathered in the town kept growing through the day.

At noon today the graduates and former students met together for a reunion luncheon and after that gathered on the south terrace of Old Main for a band concert. When the concert ended they mingled informally to wait for the hour of the library exercises.

The cornerstone event marks a significant step in Westminster's progress and scores of alumni returned to witness it.

Seperate class reunions are scheduled to take place today at 5.

But the most impressive of the Westminster graduation season festivities—the crowning of the May Queen—will take place tonight at 7. In that ceremony Miss Louise Hess, Avalon junior, attended by a group of popular Westminster girls, will be crowned as Queen. It is believed the weatherman will give support for the outdoor pageant.

Believe Bomb Killed General

Spanish Loyalists Think Time-Bomb Took Life Of Gen. Mola

(International News Service)

PARIS, June 5.—Conviction grew in highest Spanish Loyalist circles here and along the French-Spanish frontier today that General Emilio Mola, insurgent second-in-command, was the victim of a time bomb in his fatal airplane crash.

The bomb, in the belief of Loyalists, was placed in the plane because "Mola was too ardent a monarchist," the enemies within the rebel ranks opposed restoration of the monarchy in the event of a Fascist victory.

Gen. Mola and four other officers were killed Tuesday while en route from Vitoria to Burgos. Insurgents said the plane struck a mountain during a fog.

Although Mola was the last chief of police under the regime of King Alfonso, rebel circles denied today that he had any undue leanings toward restoration, and pointed to his fervent loyality towards his generalissimo, Francisco Franco.

May Ask Inquiry Into Execution Of Helmut Hirsch

Possibility Of Diplomatic Request For Inquiry Into Beheading Seen

U. S. REQUESTS GIVEN NO HEED

Hitler Fails To Make Reply To Letter From Ambassador Dodd

(International News Service)

BERLIN, June 5.—Possibility of a diplomatic request for a thorough inquiry into circumstances which sent Helmuth Hirsch, 21-year-old American citizen to death under Germany's mechanical guillotine for "high treason" was seen today.

Ambassador William E. Dodd made repeated attempts to obtain clemency for Hirsch, who was charged with possession of explosives, allegedly in a plot to kill high Nazi officials, including Julius Streicher, famous scourge of German Jews.

Hirsch, of German origins, inherited American citizenship from his father, once a naturalized American who lost United States citizenship by remaining away from the country.

Claimed "Man Without a Country"

Nazi officials termed Hirsch a "man without a country". He walked without show of emotion to the guillotine and placed his head on the block in silence.

After Hirsch was convicted on March 3 and sentenced to death, the American embassy began efforts to win clemency for him. Ambassador Dodd sent a personal appeal to Hitler, the first of four similar pleas.

The American embassy also made diplomatic representations on Hirsch's behalf.

Hitler failed to reply to Dodd's letter. The embassy was informed indirectly that Hirsch would be executed. Dodd tried to see Hitler personally on the matter, but failed to gain an audience.

No Information Given.

American officials also sought to obtain a copy of the transcript of Hirsch's trial. This was withheld.

It is believed efforts to obtain a copy of the transcript will continue.

Last Monday Dodd called on Ger-

The old fashioned days when a celluloid collar was stylish to wear and was durable too, had many advantages one of them being, when you took it off when a hot day was through, it didn't melt down to a pulpy exhibit, it still had its shape and its style and its shine, but modern day collars are ruined this weather, for example today when it reached eighty nine, my collar is down like a used turkish towel, soggy and clammy and looks like the deuce and I sigh for the days of the celluloid collar, but style says they're out and I think, what's the use.

"MUST" ITEMS ARE APPROVED

House Passes Earle Program

Legislature Prepares For Adjournment Sometime During Day

POOR BOARD SYSTEM WILL BE WIPED OUT

By FREDERICK N. POLANGIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, June 5—The overwhelmingly Democratic house majority early today rallied behind the Earle Administration, approved the three remaining "must" items—relief, liquor and police merger—and prepared for sine die adjournment of the 132nd legislature, probably some time today.

Gathering momentum like a snow ball rolling downhill, the Democratic high command untangled a last-minute knot over the liquor bills and jammed through a heretofore mutinous house of representatives measures that would:

1. Wipe out the two-story old poor board system and the state emergency relief administration and place in its stead a unified administration of relief and public assistance that entailed creation of a new state department to operate locally through county boards appointed by the governor.

2. Merge the state police and highway patrol into a Pennsylvania motor police.

3. Put "teeth" in Pennsylvania's liquor and beer laws by granting the state liquor control board far-reaching powers over the commonwealth's monopoly.

The new state election law which provides for the polls being open until 9 o'clock in the evening, may be a convenience for the voters, but it will be a big handicap in securing any early results of the outcome of the voting. With the polls closing at 7 o'clock, it was usually near midnight, before any definite conclusions could be drawn from the result of the ballotting. With the count not being started until after 9 o'clock, it will be morning before there will be much indication of the possible outcome. The only feature to the new law that may be an aid, is the fact that candidates will have to post a fee to enter the primaries, and this will probably keep some candidates from entering.

Three Measures Signed By Earle

Three Administration Labor Pledges Are Written Into State's Statute Books

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 5.—Three administration labor pledges, a liberalized workmen's compensation law, a ban on privately paid deputy sheriffs and a 44-hour week for women, were written on the state's statute books today.

Signed by Gov. George H. Earle, the measures virtually completed the administration's far-reaching labor program. A fourth bill banning the employment of strike-breakers, has been approved by the senate and awaits house concurrence in amendments while the occupational disease proposal was ready for final approval following an agreement on it late last night by a conference committee.

Compromise Effected.

Representing a compromise between the Earle administration, labor and industrial groups, workmen's compensation law, sponsored by Rep. Samuel A. Weiss, D., Allegheny, increases weekly benefits to a $12 minimum and $18 maximum. The old law specified a $7 minimum and $12 maximum.

Other features in the new law included:

Life payments for total disability; maximum payments raised from $6,500 to unlimited totals; partial injury benefits extended from 300 to 500 weeks; deafness included in the compensible list; benefits for loss of legs, arms, etc., increased; medical benefits doubled; hospitalization period trebled; benefits to dependent children increased; life payments for widows.

man Foreign Minister Baron Constantin Von Neurath and pointed out execution of Hirsch would have an "unfavorable effect" on American public opinion.

Von Neurath said he would see what could be done.

Later Dodd was informed by the foreign ministry that Hitler had "seen all the facts" and nothing more could be done. Dodd then asked that the execution be postponed until further representations could be made.

But this request also was refused.

Up to a late hour today, Ambassador Dodd remained unsuccessful in his efforts to obtain information from the German authorities regarding the evidence against Hirsch.

The executed youth's body was cremated. The ashes will be delivered to his parents in Prague.

The United States consul, it was learned, experienced considerable difficulty in inducing the authorities to cremate the body. Requested religious services were refused on the grounds insufficient notice had been given.

In the future, it was announced by the ministry of justice, all persons convicted of capital crimes in Germany, will be executed by the guillotine, as was Hirsch, instead of the headsman's axe.

Car Of Food Moved Into Plant

Struthers, O., June 5.—A squad of 50 deputies and Struthers' police armed with tear gas guns today repulsed 250 CIO pickets as a freight car of food was shunted into the plant of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company here.

The movement was directed by Sheriff Ralph E. Elser of Mahoning county. After the locomotive emerged, pickets armed with acetylene torches burned away sections of the tracks, barring further entry into the plant. The mill is not operating but a large maintenance crew is inside.

Elser and some of his men drove to the scene in a heavily armored motortruck. They arrived shortly before the single car freight train was run into the closed mills which extend for two miles here.

Elser stationed some of his men at a bridge over which the food car passed. Another squad blockaded the highway leading into the mill by parking four automobiles across it.

The pickets gathered quickly but a show of arms and tear gas projectiles drove them away.

The sheriff said he was called by Struthers police and took the action "to prevent violence." His comment was:

"I shall use every effort available to protect lives and property."

Since Sheet and Tube has stated it will not attempt to operate in the face of a picket blockade, the food presumably was for the maintenance men.

Mrs. Edith Ross was chairman of a very capable committee Friday evening for the fourth in a series of card parties which have been sponsored by the American Legion auxiliary in the Legion Home.

Cards and bingo were both in play for the entertainment of the large number of guests present, and light refreshments were served to conclude the pleasant event.

Winners of the men's bingo prizes were George Henderson and William Brooks; ladies, Mrs. C. J. Kenehan and Mrs. L. Murphy; cards, Mrs. Veach, Mrs. Eleanor Wilkins and Robert Gorst.

Committee on cards was headed by Edna Headland; bingo, Gertrude Speed; kitchen, Mary Craig, Frances Cope and Diana Sweet.

The afternoon program was inspirational, with a special guest, Mrs. Howard Magill, providing the devotional setting. Miss Sara Nitche, talented young soprano, sang two numbers which were thoroughly enjoyed. Mary Louise Kirkpatrick was accompanist.

The main feature of the afternoon was a talk by Mrs. Ridell, wife of the pastor of the Christian church at Butler.

During the business period there was an election of officers: President, Mrs. E. W. Swan; vice president, Mrs. C. M. England; secretary, Mrs. R. H. Waite; treasurer, Mrs. J. B. Dufford

THE TOURIST MUST BE SERVED

THE VACATION season is under way in full force and again Pennsylvania occupies a top position in the list of favorite states with the tourists.

The forest and mountain vistas, the miles of modern highways and the fascination of the industrial areas are bringing the vacationists by the thousands.

But with the tourists comes a new problem, growing more acute as the state's fame as a scenic paradise spreads. This problem is what to do with the onrush.

Many from the district received first-hand information on the vacation boom during the recent Memorial Day week-end. Highways were clogged, some resorts swamped and popular points of interest a seething mass of humanity.

Cook Forest, near Clarion, long a favorite spot with nature lovers, was overrun, it is reported.

The tourist trade is of great importance to Pennsylvania and should be encouraged. One way to continue the out-of-state folks coming to Pennsylvania would be for the state to open additional acres of its forest land for the recreation of the public.

THE LIBRARY STATE

Perhaps New Hampshire deserves to be called the mother of American free libraries. At any rate, the state has so many volumes in its public libraries that every man, woman and child in New Hampshire could take out three books at one time and still leave some. There are 3,750 books for every 1,000 of population.

It claims also to have had the first free public library in the country, established on a common ownership basis. That was in 1833. In 1849 the state was first to authorize the support of public libraries from tax funds. In 1859 it was the first state to impose a special tax levy for meeting library expenses.

Lest New Hampshire grow too cocky over this superiority, it should be said that, though first in per capita number of books, it is third in per capita circulation of them.

AMELIA EARHART TAKES TO THE AIR

Although notable enterprise and daring in the field of aviation are rapidly losing their power to intrigue the imaginations of sedentary citizens without the personal urge for high adventure, the comings and the goings of Amelia Earhart are always a matter of interest.

Back only a short time from her unsuccessful attempt to follow the course of the equator by plane, this indomitable young woman, with her wind-blown bob and her serene confidcence in the kindliness of the fates that attend her, is off in the air again. She has outlined a 28,000-mile itinerary which will take her practically everywhere, her immediate objectives being South America and then Africa.

For Miss Earhart the boundless wastes of ocean, the jagged crags of mountain peaks, the jungles and the deserts hold no terrors. She has looked down upon them on many occasions. Her friends are certain that, regardless of the difficulties encountered, she will come through safely.

COURSES IN COURT TESTIMONY

While public speaking courses have long been a recognized phase of higher education, Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy, New York, is giving its engineering students special training in court testimony. Engineers must often serve as expert witnesses; they should be able to do their profession credit in the way they respond to a lawyer's grilling or offer technical information.

For that matter, presenting technical papers and making general addresses are important parts of a practicing engineer's opportunities. General Electric engineers made 6680 public speeches during 1936, and this firm trains its employees in speaking clearly and forcefully on their feet.

Platforms come natural to ministers, educators and attorneys. The other professions are wise when they likewise emphasize this qualification for recognition. Putting students in the witness chair and badgering them with legitimate or foolish queries should at least give them good control of their tempers.

NOT-SO-GOOD OLD DAYS

Summer wind and electric storms are the best known cure for the backwardlookitis. The most chronic case of wishing for the good old times seldom survives one good blow or bolt that lays the wires low or gets the light and power on the two-party line.

An appetite for old-fashioned ways and customs finds little to feed upon in the up-to-date world, which explains the unkind comparisons between present and past with the past getting the worst of it.

One can easily get all sentimental and sobby reminiscing about the good old candle-light days when the family gathered around the open fireplace instead of scattering among the night clubs. But let the electric light go out for one night at the behest of that boisterous fellow Thor and these reveries about the soft glow of the candle flame are forgotten in the heat of indignant conversations with the light company.

Failure of the electric service for a few hours is a major disaster in the modern home. So seldom does it occur that few homes prepare for the emergency. Nor can they meet it completely.

There are no candles or oil lamps to replace the darkened bulbs. The old-fashioned flatiron went for junk years ago. Cooking, heating and refrigeration all depend upon electricity in countless homes. Even toast and coffee are dependent on poles, wires and generators in most households.

Yes, the good old days and the good-old-fashioned ways would be nice again if we could have them with all modern improvements.

A woman is a person who thinks a frock becoming to her because she likes the buttons.

But if everybody could read how would they find a jury that hadn't formed an opinion?

Simile for today: As rare as a car owner who doesn't dream of trying that new road into Mexico.

A Harvard savant says "the fundamental premises of logic are without any factual basis." We've always suspected this to be the case, at least with the logic of other people.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

DESCRIBES GOOD SCHOOLS

NOT LONG ago I spent a day visiting schools in Upper Darby, Pa., a suburb of Philadelphia which in the last 25 years has grown from a mere village to a city of 65,000. In the junior high school building, noted for its architectural beauty and excellence in design, we visited in the full-sized apartment house, the first full-sized one I had ever seen in a school building. A number of girls were sitting comfortably in the spacious living room as guests about to be served by another group of girls busily preparing for them in the dining room and kitchen. In this apartment every girl of this school system has practical experience, under skillful guidance, in home making, home management, housekeeping in every detail, and child care, in a normal setting where the niceties of social grace are exercised.

Greatly impressed I was with the activities program of the Upper Darby schools, from the grades up through the senior high schools, with the wide diversity and good balancing of it all, and the sane philosophy which prevailed. In the grades, tool subjects were not neglected. In the junior and senior high schools athletics have not run riot. Although there are interscholastic contests, contests within the school (intra-murals) are strongly emphasized. The range of sports is wide. No one or two types overshadow the rest. Music and the dramatic arts have a large place in these schools.

The schools have wise professional leadership. Dr. William C. Sampson is a man of great ability, vision and psychological insight, so recognized throughout America. He has selected carefully a very high grade corps of teachers, most of whom he has inspired to go on for advanced study in the various graduate schools in universities. Dr. Sampson truly is the professional head of the public schools of Darby and, from what I could ascertain from numerous citizens of his city, has the complete confidence of the public.

Here are some statements I picked up from Dr. Sampson as we went about, which greatly interested me: "When a child hears his parents quarrel, hears the father, perhaps, threaten never to return, and feels uncertain about his own emotional security, how can he keep his mind on his work at school?" "I don't believe in demotion. If the student is unable to do the work of the next grade, let him repeat, within reason, or be assigned to work he can do, but don't send him ahead with the threat of demotion. Nothing is more disastrous to him."

I DON'T FEEL ANY BETTER,

WELL, I TOOK your advice.

I apologized. I hunted up that friend with whom I had a disagreement and told him I was sorry. I admitted I had been an idiot, that he had been entirely in the right, and that I hoped he would forget what I had said and be friendly again.

But it didn't work and I don't feel any better than I did before. . . . You said I'd be happier. You said I'd feel square with the world, cleansed and renewed and full of life.

Well, you're mistaken—and I don't.

And you needn't be telling me that I went in the wrong spirit, with my tongue in my cheek and a mental reservation to everything I said. . . . But I didn't. I went humbly and frankly, honestly wishing to clear away the differences between that fellow and me. . . . In that spirit I went 99 per cent of the way—and then came 99 per cent of the way back home again.

You're so smart, my spiritual adviser, but you didn't take one factor into consideration. It may take two to make a quarrel, but it also takes two to get rid of it. . . . I discovered that that fellow is one of those critters who'd rather have his grouch than be friendly. He'd put himself so squarely on record and I couldn't dislodge him. He'd said he was never going to like me again and he didn't want to change his mind. . . . And my apology couldn't budge him. All it did was make him feel superior and make him suspect that I had one of those "ulterior motives" we're always hearing about. So he snooted me, gave me a limp handshake and sent me on my way, gritting my teeth and clenching my fists.

So here I am, back where I started from—and I tell you again that I DON'T feel any better than I did.

And now WHAT am I going to do? . . . Well, I guess I'm just as stubborn as he and he's not going to stop ME from ending our quarrel. . . . I'm going to wait a few weeks and speak cheerfully to him whenever we meet, and then I'm going to see him again and ask him to do a favor for me. Just a little one, but enough to put me under obligations to him. . . . And that'll break his resistance down. Just see if it doesn't!

MEN ONE-DISH COOKS

While the wife is away on her vacation the husband may write in glowing terms of the excellent meals he is preparing for himself and the cat. But if we take it from one prominent lady politician, who also has a reputation as a cook there may be some doubt as to how well he is getting along. This authority on men and their culinary ability is Rep. Virginia Jenckes, of Indiana. When shown recipes by Senator Huey Long, and Representatives Montet and Kramer recently, she declared: "Very nice, in their way. But these men—they're just one-dish cooks. They mix up a heavy dressing, or some meat dish including everything they can get their hands on and call themselves cooks. Justice Claypool, who has been married 45 years, is somewhat of an authority on divorce because he handles hundreds of domestic relations cases each year. Good Taste

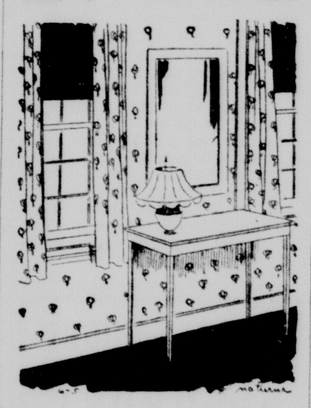
Reg. U. S. Pat. Office.



By Francine Markel

DEAR MISS MARKEL—Is it permissible to have chintz curtains in a room with figured wallpaper or would this produce an over-decorated effect?—F. L.

Answer—Mixed patterns must be avoided if the wall paper is figured. There is a hard and fast rule among interior decorators to the effect that if you have figured wallpaper you should not have figured curtains. Hangings and furniture covering in such a room should be either of plain or striped material.

The only exceptions to this rule are cases in which wallpaper and chintz are made to match or harmonize perfectly, which combination is very attractive if the design is not too striking and the room is small but not overcrowded with furniture.

DEAR MISS MARKEL—Are colored bed linens in good taste? I am anxious to carry out the color scheme of my room in this manner. —L. C. E.

Answer—Most people prefer white bed linens but those who wish may, with good taste, have their linens dyed to match the color scheme of the room, especially if it is pink, apricot or peach, which dyes usually turn out very successfully.

Fear Chamberlain Attitude.
Nationalistic Ideas May Cause Woe.
America Wonders About Trade Pact.

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Columnist

MORE THAN meets the eye depends on the attitude of Great Britain's new prime minister — Neville Chamberlain.

Chamberlain is an arch-Tory. He is a man with a single-track mind —a term which is purely American but which Britons are beginning to understand.

That single track in Chamberlain's mind points toward nationalism. Much of the trouble besetting the world today is due to nationalism. Thus, the apprehension.

Not all the apprehension is in other nations, either. Much of it is in England, itself, as Prof. Harold Laski, of the University of London, points out.

Professor Laski is a pro-Laborite. Above all, however, he is the most thorough observer of the present time of British trends.

Professor Laski believes that the outright reactionism and nationalism of Chamberlain as prime minister will lead to the upbuilding of a strong Laborite or Socialistic opposition in England, with a clash for power.

In other words, England will have a New Deal issue to battle out, at the same time it will need all its wits to contend with Nazi-ism and fascism on the European continent.

* * *

U. S. AFFECTED

The Roosevelt administration wonders how Chamberlain will stand on a reciprocal trade treaty between Great Britain and the United States.

Until a few days ago, it looked as if the economic conference of dominion leaders and the mother country government in London would lead to a British-American reciprocal trade agreement. The Canadian prime minister, MacKenzie King, has been arguing for such an agreement, following the good effects of the Canadian-American reciprocal trade agreement.

And such an agreement evidently still seems probable.

But Chamberlain is a high tariff man, a believer in keeping trade within the dominion, an insular nationalist, a tory of the type that Republicans in the United States were during the era just passed. Yet he probably believes, also, that Great Britain will be benefited economically, at a time when it needs economic stabilizers, by a trade agreement. And, of course, the United States is equally as eager for the trade that would come its way in exchange.

Chamberlain, it is true, was a "reform" mayor of his home city, Birmingham, in his young days. Even so, he derives from the industrial middle class rulers, men who have made their success in an era when the "self-made man" was looked upon as the prototype of leadership.

* * *

CONTRAST

Stanley Baldwin of course, was a Tory. But he had the breadth and the graciousness that comes with an international view.

Professor Laski considers Baldwin as the "more dangerous" Tory of the two. For Baldwin caused voters and foreign nations alike to believe that he was gaining victories for liberalism. Whereas, the opposite was true. He made serious inroads on liberalism under his gracious smile.

Professor Laski believes it will be found that much of the progress of the last 125 years in England has been under mined by Baldwin's gracious touch.

* * *

DOES NOT KNOW U. S.

It probably is essential, for the peace of the world, that the British political leaders know the trends and feeling of the American people.

Chamberlain knows little of the United States.

Perhaps worse, it is feared in England that unintentionally he may adopt a swaggering attitude toward Europe—in order to prove Great Britan's isolation. The Brit-

"DEFENDER OF THE FAITH"

The radio is a great institution. It can oe the most annoying instrument in the world, even more annoying than a jangling telephone when you don't want to answer telephone calls. Millions of peoples of the world were able on Wednesday, May 12th, to hear and visualize the Coronation of an English king. Not many Americans who listened had the slightest idea what a Coronation is. Why it is held in Westminster Abbey; why the Archbiship of Canterbury plays such an important part.

These Americans who listened in should know now that the Church of England is an institution as the British Empire itself. It was the Archbishop of Canterbury who presented the King in the open platform erected on the spot where the transepts of the Abbey intersect the great nave, and that presentation was the most dramatic incident of the whole affair. It was the Archbishop who asked the Lords, the Commons, and the whole people in that great Cathedral if they acceped George Windsor, as their King, to be known as "George VI by the Grace of God, King of Great Britain, Ireland, of the British Dominions be-

WEALTH

There is a wealth of silver, of copper, steel and gold,
A wealth of land for tillage, but these alone are cold.
And man may own such treasures, ten times beyond his need
But lacking other riches he'll still be poor indeed.

For there's the wealth of spirit; the wealth of heart and mind;
The wealth of great good nature exalting all mankind.
And who seeks only treasures his grasping hands can clutch,
To fill his purse and pocket must rob himself of much.

Oh, there's the wealth of beauty, of field and stream and sky
Of hours that bring no profit save charm to ear and eye.
And there's the wealth of friendship that makes a life complete!
Who merely fills his pockets lives just to drink and eat.

Sunday's Yesterdays—June 6, 1755—Nathan Hale was born in Coventry, Conn., great-grandson of the Rev. John Hale who complacently sent scores to death in Salem's witchcraft craze.

It was only by chance that Hale's famous remark ("I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country") was recorded and preserved, for the British provost-marshal attempted to suppress the details of the 21-year-old officer's death so "the rebels should never know that they had a man who could die with such firmness."

June 6, 1799—Revolutionary hero Patrick Henry died. His dying words are as interesting as Hale's. He said: "Here is a book (the Bible) worth more than all others ever printed; yet it is my misfortune never to have found time to read it. It is now too late. I trust in the mercy of God."

June 6, 1804—Louis Antoine Godey was born in New York City, 26 years before he established the first magazine exclusively for women ever published. When he retired as editor, after 47 years, it was his greatest satisfaction that "not an immoral thought or profane word" could be found in its pages during all the years he published the magazine.

HE IS THE CABINET

Honest and determined in his beliefs, a man who himself is his entire cabinet, Neville Chamberlain will formulate his own foreign policy—based probably on a provincial nationalism. He, himself, may be the first to become alarmed over the reaction to such a policy. Politicians who have utilized it to rise to power at home are mystified when it proves a boomerang when applied in dealings with other nations.

It invariably is said that Chamberlain comes to the prime ministership with a wonderful heritage. His father, as a political leader, almost typified an era; and his late brother, although less successful, nevertheless knew all the ins and out. But it is just such a heritage that will prove the handicap. It is a cloak of an outmoded era. It cannot and will not prove invincible against all the contesting forces and creeds churning and surging in the witches' pots of the world today.

The court fight is really over except the detail of finding some solution that will prevent injury to either side's vanity.

yond the Seas. Defender of the Faith and Emperor of India."

There were no listless answers to these questions. Each gave a rousing reply and when the King, about to be crowned, was turned to the high altar, you then received, perhaps, a shock if you were not a religionist; if you did not believe in established religion—in an established Church—for then the King himself pledged allegiance to his God and the Established Church of England. Then it was that you received the true definition of that part of his title, "Defender of the Faith." No Romanist ever took any greater obligation to his Church as did George VI at that time, to the Established Church of England.

It will be remembered that at the time of the abdication of Edward VIII, in the recital of his titles, there was no mention of him as the "Defender of the Faith." It was the Established Church of England that forced that abdication.

There is grim humor in all of this, for it was old plantagenet King Edward VIII, of many wives, who established the Church of England, notwithstanding all the volumes that have been written concerning the apostolic origin of the Church of England.

Let's not be hypocrites. If the millionaire and the pauper could change places, they would also change "principles."

SQUARE CIRCLE MEETS

Thursday evening, members of the Square Circle club of the Y. W. C. A. met jointly with the Blue Triangle club and the Good Will Graduates both "Y" organizations.

Card playing was the main diversion of the meeting. A novel feature of the affair was an old hat game. Each of the girls brought an old fashioned hat to the party. As the partners changed tables during the card tournament they would change hats, causing a great deal of fun and entertainment.

Plans were made to turn the next meeting, on Thursday evening, June 10, into a dinner and theatre party. The group will meet in the "Y" at 6:30 for the dinner.

BUSINESS GIRLS COUNCIL

On Monday night at 8 o'clock the Business Girls Council will meet in the Y. W. C. A. to elect a secretary, treasurer and registrar for the Western Pennsylvania Business Girls Conference which will take place in New Castle on Sunday, June 13. The fall conference of that body will also be in this city.

The local council is comprised of officers and committee chairmen from the Blue Triangle Club, the Goodwill Graduates club and Square Circle, business girls' organization of the "Y."

The local clubs have been notified that they will be allowed three delegats instead of one. The committee chairman for the conference is Mrs. Mildred Porter of the Blue Triangle club.

Country Inns Doing Fadeout

Tourist Camps, Trailers, And Telephone Spell Doom Of Country Town Hotel

M'INTYRE RECALLS YOUTHFUL PERIOD

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 5.—The country town hotel is teetering on the brink of oblivion. The trailer, tourist camp, telephone and miracle of motoring have all played their parts in its undoing. Hundreds of rural inns over the land merely hang on, waiting the inevitable foreclosure.

O. O. McIntyre

In retrospect these havens seemed notable contributions to community content. My father spent all his active years as a Missouri hotel proprietor and I spent many of my formative days in what then appeared to be an exciting flurry of travel, strange faces and constant change.

The country hotel was the hub of the village. Most of the news of the world outside radiated from there. From the city drummer the town slickers acquired their sartorial slick. It was where the troupers stopped when they came with their tricks of illusion, soubrettes, villains and handsome heroes.

The hotel office was where the men of the town gathered when night came on. It was where the mighty questions of the day were settled, where the scandals of the town were aired and where men argued valiantly and often in apoplectic rage over the "goings on in Washington".

Country hotel offices were cut to a familiar pattern. There was the semi-circular reception desk with the open register and pens spiked in a raw potato or cup of bird shot. Alongside, the cigar case. Back of them, the big iron safe, key rack and clock whose face heralded the miracles of some medical bitters. Centering the room, the pot-bellied stove festooned with its yawning boxes of sand that served as cuspidors. On the side, the writing desk with a half dozen chairs, and in a corner the high shoe-shine chair, operated by the combination porter, bell boy and houseman—all in one.

The dining room led off the office through swing doors and there was a rack for hats at the entrance—no snide hat checking in those days. There was the drummer's table, distinguished by a bowl of city oranges and bananas, and from the ceiling hung an enormous and smelly kerosene lamp. Waitresses were rather flip, peroxided ladies from Kansas City or St. Joseph. Usually they were talked about, but now and then one married a local boy and turned out to be a wonderful wife and mother. But rarely was she ever accepted into the social realm.

The general run of country hotels was $2 a day—that included a room and three meals. And what meals! At breakfast, for instance, the aproned waitress sing-songed over your shoulder: Bacon and fried eggs, fried chicken, steak with onions, sausage and griddle cakes, pork chops with apple rings and spare ribs. With the entree came a variety of tempting doo-dads, such as fried mush, hominy grits and butter beets served in bird-cage dishes. All the coffee and milk you could drink and no sniffs at requests for second helpings.

Many hotels were so comfortable and home-like they won for the village the sobriquet of "Sunday towns". My father's inn created that distinction. Drummers came on Saturday night and remained until Monday and thus the hotel office on Saturday night was awash with a thrilling cosmopolitanism. All the chairs were occupied and the locals loafed about bug-eyed in the sudden rub with the outside world and citified yarn-spinning.

In one corner a pitch, seven up or cribbage game and the room was literally opalescent with cigar and pipe smoke. Now and then Clum Jenkins, the hackman, would throw open the front door to bark: "Sante Fe north, Rock Island south." And Jimmy J. L. Lucas, the town drunk, would weave about in an alcoholic blur until led out again. Jimmy realized he was never welcome and was always dog-like in humility. Also the eternally hen-pecked Major Bunce who would skitter in a moment, like a frightened rabbit, for a look around while on his way to Sutter's notion store to match ribbons or silks for his wife, the town dressmaker. A tittuppy, hand-washing man who minced through life with an apologetic air. There was a crude heartiness about the crowd in the hotel office. Their ribaldry had the raw flavor of the barn-yard, but somehow it was wholesome in contrast to the psychopathic pap of today. Many were tobacco chewers and corn cob pipe smokers with a wardrobe of two suits—one for work and one "for nice". But they were substantial folk, with respect for the laws and the Constitution. God-fearing described them perfectly.

Sunday mornings, in seasonable weather, the chairs were placed at the curb and the office moved out to watch the town go by to the post office and church. The farm boys would come on horseback in their Sunday suits and rack their mounts in Perkins' pasture across the way to gawk at the city folk. Giggly girls would flounce by affecting indifference but a half block away would eddy up to some window and glance back, expectantly! How prosaic it all is to recall—and yet how tremendous it was for all of us.

Tennis Making Great Comeback

Courts Being Used Constantly At Park Avenue And Gaston Park Locations

MORE COURTS ARE BEING CONSTRUCTED

After a decline of popularity during the past four or five years, tennis is making one of the greatest comebacks in the city, a tour of courts constructed under the supervision of W. P. A. recreational program and National Youth Administration, reaveled today.

The appealing of the white pellet bounding against racquets and toppling nets is once again prevalent throughout the city. Despite the fact that the tennis season is just starting, more enthusiasm has been displayed than during the past few years. At Rose Bowl, (Park avenue) and Gaston Park, where courts are available, tennis is the most popular sport. Rose Bowl, is now a completed playground equipped with two courts which are used constantly throughout the day.

At picturesque Gaston Park, a court has been completed and another one is under construction. More courts are being built at George Washington junior high school ground (four), two at Boyles field and one at Dean Park. These courts will be ready for use within the next week or so.

Bakers Hot Mills Trip Cold Rolls

The Bakers Hot Mill team of the Carnegie-Illinois Softball league handed the Cold Rolls, the last years champs a big surprise last night at Gaston park field 2 to 0. It was the excellent pitching of Spanish for the Bakers that won the game. He allowed just one hit that by Sniezek of the Cold Rolls.

The Bakers only had three hits off of Oleski. Extra-base hits went to Koszela and Jones. Justine played a great game in the field.

Indians Again Defeat Yanks

Indians May Pass Yankees Before Long, Pirates Lose To Boston Bees

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 5.—Home run hitters of the majors have begun to find the range and when Mickey Cochrane leaves the hospital here today or tomorrow and goes home to Detroit, he will be pleasantly surprised to see his first baseman—big Hank Greenberg—leading the procession in both leagues.

The day before his recent unfortunate mishap, Mickey said if his Tigers could keep reasonably close to the Yanks until his team got back to full playing strength, they would give the New Yorkers a battle right down to the wire.

Indians Win Again

They are a little closer today than they were yesterday when the Indians again knocked off the Yanks, 5-3, and if injuries continue to bedevil the Yanks, the New Yorkers may have their hands full staying in front of the parade.

They lost their great Rookie pitcher, Spurgeon Chandler, who has been a consistent winner, yesterday when he pivoted too fast in making a throw to base and hurt his shoulders. With Pearson also out indefinitely, the Yanks will have to uncock some terrific hitting to overcome their shortage of pitching.

The National league also tightened a little more when the Bees once more knocked off the league-leading Pirates, 9-1, behind Turner's five-hit pitching.

Cubs-Giants Split

This was a boon to the Cubs and Giants who were splitting a pair, the Cubs winning the opener, after chasing Carl Hubbell to the showers, 6-5 in 11 innings and dropping the nightcap, 4-2.

Great relief pitching by Bryant who didn't give the Giants a hit in the last four innings, accounted for the first game.

Clyde Castlemen outpitched Bill Lee in the second affair out the Giant had a scare tossed his way when Galan hit his second homer of the day in the ninth, driving in Frey ahead of him.

The Giants dropped out of second place after losing the first tussel but climbed back again after the second one.

Weiland Wins Again

With Lefty Weiland holding the Dodgers to six hits, the Cards, egged on from the stands by the happily-reinstated Dizzy Dean, walloped the Dodgers, 14 to 4 to retain their berth in the first division.

The Reds and Phillies split between them four of the league's output of ten home runs for the day, but the Reds managed to squeeze through, 9-8.

Tommy Bridges held the Senators to six hits while his buddies helped him with a big seven-run inning and ambled in 10 to 3.

The Browns took the opening game of a doubleheader from the A's in 10 heats, 7 to 6. Two homers by Moses were offset by one each manufactured by Clift and Bell, who got his to tie it up in the ninth. The second game also went to ten heats with the A's winning, 4 to 3.

War Admiral To Race At Belmont

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 5.—The prancing War Admiral will step out on the Belmont Park track late today, favored to join three other turf immortals as winner of the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont stakes, the latter this afternoon's feature.

With a place beside Sir Barton, Gallant Fox and Omaha, and victor's share of a $25,000 added purse riding on the outcome, the Admiral was expected to run for the crowd, and Pompoon, second in the Derby and Preakness, again was cast in the role of second choice—and shadow—in the 69th renewal of this classic.

Having shown his speed, the son of Man O' War today was to attempt to prove his stamina over the long route—a mile and a half, in contrast to the shorter distances over which he scored his greatest triumphs.

The choice of many particular men.

TALES IN TIDBITS

By BILI BRAUCHER
Central Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, June 5.—They are sharpening the ax in St. Louis for Rogers Hornsby, whose Browns seem to have sunk to a new low this year . . . Prexy Don Barnes is said to have engaged in several battles with the Rajah during a recent road trip in which the Brownies won two games and dropped 13 . . . Hornsby is reported to have refused to accede to Barnes' suggestion for betterment of the ball club, telling him that the club was being run by a man named Rogers Hornsby . . . and that was that.

The Rajah has a two-year contract with the Brownies, calling for $20,000 a year, but President Barnes says the contract is such that it can be broken for 1938 if the Browns do not come up to expectations . . . there are 900 stockholders in the new ownership, and most of those people are fans who want the club to win . . . It looks bad for the old gent from Texas at this writing.

* * *

Fans have come to the aid of Amos Rusie, once great speedball pitcher, assuring him of a home and income after a mortgage on his home at Auburn, Wash., had been foreclosed and he had been left without funds . . . Gifts to Rusie and his invalid wife assure them of a place in which to live and no financial worries for the rest of their lives . . . A Seattle newspaper conducted a campaign for the couple, and was assisted materially by the Sporting News, national baseball publication . . . Funds from the All-Star game treasury, which I understand now has about $200,000 to administer, were sent to relieve the pitcher's distress.

* * *

Spencer Abbott, Pacific Coast fire-eater, was let out as manager of the Seattle club because he was too harsh on the players . . . Pitcher Clyde Hatter, sent to Toledo by Detroit, was fined $200 for breaking training rules after arrival with the Mud Hens . . . Mad Hatter, huh? . . . Cincinnati fans are groaning over the hard luck of the Reds . . . it's the guess in this corner that the club still will pick up and go places . . . the lads seem to have lost their spring confidence following a bunch of one-run defeats . . . Ye New York scribes are sore at Will Terry again because they are barred from the clubhouse whenever anything important happens . . . the writers have besought Prexy Stoneham to arrange a meeting with Terrible Terry in an effort to come to a more liberal understanding . . . incidentally, Bill wishes the writers would quit referring to Carl Hubbell as "Terry's meal ticket."

* * *

Chicago Cubs' press box hospitality is tops, the boys who produce the box scores agree . . . the head waiter is a gent named Walter Johnson, who keeps pestering the hungry writers with demands that they have some more sandwiches, coffee, milk, lemonade, deviled eggs, olives, pickles, and chocolate or coconut cake . . . Pie Traynor has built a new home in Brookfield, Ind.

* * *

Jim Bottomley, first baseman of the Browns, has a cow which he calls Fielder's Choice . . . Fielder's Choice is anticipating a blessed event . . . if male, the offspring will be named Beau Bell, after the Brownies' slugging outfielder . . . That reminds me of Wilcy Moore's mules . . . he called one Babe and the other Ruth . . . One of baseball's brighter friendships is that between Mickie Cochrane and Cy Perkins . . . Cy was Connie Mack's first string catcher before Mickey displaced him in 1925, but instead of becoming enemies (as might be supposed), they became the closest pals . . . and when Mickey got the job of managing the Tigers, the first thing he did was to bring Cy on from the Yankees as coach . . . Mickey is said to have lost heavily in the market crash of 1929, putting up lots of bucks in an effort to save some of Cy's stocks.

Dean To Hurl For Cardinals

Back In Good Faith Again, "Dizzy" Will Pitch Against Phils Today

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 5.—Back in good standing after his spectacular squabble, Dizzy Dean was set to hurl for the St. Louis Cardinals at Philadelphia today.

National League President Ford Frick lifted the suspension slapped on the Cardinal pitcher following a brief conference at league headquarters in which, to the bitter end, Dean stood his ground and refused to sign anything—especially anything that smacked of an apology.

In fact, Dizzy got so talkative after the suspension was lifted that he was nearly suspended again.

Denies Charges

Frick, however, apparently weary of the whole affair, withdrew his demand that Dean sign a written statement denying the pitcher's purported attacks on Frick and on umpire George Barr. The league president insisted, nevertheless, that Dean make a formal oral deniel before witnesses.

And so, in the presence of witnesses, Dean declared he never called Frick and Barr "the biggest crooks in baseball". Dean also repudiated alleged statements about the National League balk rule.

Frick then issued a statement saying he was "perfectly willing to accept the statement of Mr. Dean at its face value and consider the incident closed."

But, knowing Dean, Frick included these words in his statement:

"So far as what may occur in the future, time alone can tell."

City Baseball Games Sunday

Four Fast Games Will Be Played In City Baseball League

Four games are scheduled in the City Baseall league for Sunday. All of the games will start at 3 o'clock.

The league leading South Side Board of Trade team with Steve Badurik, lately acquired from the K. Pulaski team, in the box, will face the West Pittsburg team. Manager Scaglione in announcing that he had signed Badurik, said that he would be in the box this coming Sunday. Scaglione thinks that Badurik has a great future as a pitcher and hopes to develop him.

Colored Elks go to Cedar street to meet the Lawrence Indies, and the "Red Caps" will have their hands full with the lightning fast Elks. Majocha will probably go for the Indies and Sammy Gray for the Elks.

The K. Pulaski team will be down in the seventh ward to meet the Mahoning A. A. team. Manager "Lefty" Maslyk will use Mrozek in the box, with the Mahonings picking Russo to oppose the versatile "Cab".

Ryantown-Firemen.

Ryantown and the Sixth Ward Firemen will stage a battle at the Lee avenue field. The Ryantowns want revenge for the 7 to 1 lacing handed to them last night by the Firemen, with "Hank" Faller, a young pitcher, standing the Ryantown boys on their ears. Sunday, it is expected that Manager Samuels will give Carey the starting nod, and Manager Bill Gall will probably choose Wylie Shiek or Fred Farrell to oppose the Ryantowners.

In event of good weather no doubt large crowds will see all of the games. There is a spirited race for first place taking place at the moment, involving the Board of Trade, Ryantown, K. Pulaski and the Lawrence Indies.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Harry Cooper, favorite to win the National Open at Birmingham, Mich., next week, and elongated Horton Smith shot their way into the lead in the $4000 Iverness four-ball matches yesterday with a pair of par-shattering performances. The two stars carded a 61, 10 under par, in the morning to defeat Denny Shute, P. G. A. champion, and Lawson Little, former grand slam British and American title-holder, six up. They came back in the afternoon with a 66 to hand Sammy Snead and Ralph Guldahl a one down beating.

Ranger, Harold S. Vanderbilt's new candidate for defense of America's cup yesterday defeated Chandler Hovey's Rainbow, 1934, in a slight breeze to stand alone unbeaten in the opening trial races. Several days ago Ranger trounced Gerard B. Lambert's Yankee, a third of the defense aspirants, and a veteran of the 1930 and 1934 international sailing engagements.

Addison Bostain, Sr., pitches for the Chapin, S. C., club of the Dutch York league and despite his 50 years intends to continue pitching as he had been doing for 35 years.

Schmeling To Return Home

Grim, Glum And Dour, Uhlan Will Go Back To His Native Land

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, June 5.—Grim, glum and very dour in the utter defeat of all his hopes, Max Schmeling, the suddenly glowering Uhlan, will be on his way back to Germany within a comparative few hours, leaving a sense of lasting bitterness—and a radio script that never got an airing. Airing? They say fumigation might be more like it.

It was, they insist, an excoriating blast at the New York boxing commission for its failure to hold James J. Braddock to his contract calling for a defense of his heavyweight championship here on Thursday night, and against sports writers who did not see fit to attack Braddock's shift of allegiance to Chicago and Joe Louis on June 22. Schmeling, having personally written the outburst with a pen dipped in vitriol after Thursday's meeting, in which the board only fined Braddock but did not attempt to take his title, had planned to go on a national hoop up with his message. It never got past the ante-room.

It was said at the time that the script was destroyed. But there's reason to believe it hasn't been and the writer, for one, would and will be interested in seeing it.

Bitterness is strictly a new act with Schmeling. Heretofore, he has been evasive, urbane, uninformative and slightly patronizing with all interviewers, his air being that of a man who sees all, knows all—and tells nothing. But, beyond all available doubt, he has got more pushing around this time than a wheel barrow and it rankles.

The results of the shoot:

Rads, Nobils Weavers Win

Saks Drop To Second Place; Rads Leaders Of City Softball League

Continuing to play impressively, National Radiator softball team crushed the Johnson-Bronze club 12-4 while the Nobils pulled through with the first surprise of the season, defeating the highly touted Saks, 16-4, at Gaston Park. The Weavers of the Seventh Ward went on a hitting spree walloping the West Pittsburg aggregation, 24-4. As a result of last night's games, Rads today are in first place.

Stub Dweyer won his second straight allowing the J. B. team but 6 hits while Joe Bosco pitched good ball but received poor support. Sammy Copple, Dundo Ambrosia and Frank Stone hit homers while Irv Rubeis hit a triple, Gabby DeCaprio, Tip Richards and Stub Dweyer came through with two baggers. Tip Richards, playing his tenth season, was outstanding for the J. B.

WHAT WOULD YOU THINK OF A NEIGHBOR WHO KEPT YOUR LAWN MOWER MOST OF THE TIME?

Merely knowing that you are going to get it sometime isn't much consolation when your lawn needs mowing. Future promises do not answer present needs.

It's the same with money as with mowers. The expectation of receiving it sometime is of small utility when it is needed to meet pressing obligations.

Withholding funds from the man you owe makes his ledger look like a lawn that needs mowing.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL.

A false rumor has been going around about one of our favorite bachelors . . . it was reported that during the past week-end he and a certain young lady were united in wedlock . . . Eddie Rummel is the boy and he wishes it made public that he is not married . . . we thank you Eddie for clearing up that false report.

• • •

This is the month that more homes are made than any other month of the year . . . we should all be happy and help these young birds start out right . . . make it as pleasant as possible.

• • •

We are for marriage but there is one thing that keeps clawing at our mind . . . why do people insist on keeping it a secret? What do they gain? If it's financial trouble . . . keeping it a secret won't help any . . . this is one question that we would like a little light on . . . can you help.

• • •

One of our stores has the following sign "June Bride Sale" . . . think I'll go over and see what types they have on sale. Quite a lot of people were watching the construction of the Murphy swimming pool this morning . . . we know three or four fellows that haven't missed a day at the rail . . . I think they know how many cubic yards of dirt have been taken out . . . well anyhow they do spend a lot of time there . . . New Castle's little lake.

• • •

Tomorrow in most churches they will celebrate children's day . . . that is a wonderful day . . . you might not believe it but we are all children . . . of course this day is for the small children, never the less we can all enjoy it . . . when you are driving around the streets you should always think it's children's day . . . may be this would make you drive more slowly . . . what do you think . . . well kids have fun tomorrow and be good . . . say your speeches with great gusto.

Stock Market Is Irregular

General Undertone Of Market Continues Steady As Week Closes

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, June 5.—The stock market turned somewhat irregular in today's shortened session after adding a point or so to yesterday's late advance.

While gains were whittled to small proportions and a number of issues slipped behind minus signs, the general undertone continued steady. Trading once more was of minor proportions, with Wall Street attendance light.

At the start, farm implements, steels, coppers and rails had led a fairly brisk rally, gains in the first-named group running to 3 points in Case. Midway through the first hour, though, the usual week-end evening up brought leaders back from the peaks, many dropping below previous closing levels.

The stimulant offered by estimates of high crop prospeocts still was a factor in the farm stocks. International Harvester gained close to 2 points to reach a new top for the year, following Case's sharp jump. Deere moved up 2, but Oliver lagged.

Bonds were improved, including most government issues. Grains eased somewhat, but cotton was firm.

DR. McLAUGHRY TO BE HONORED

Westminster College To Award Doctor Of Science Degree To Woman

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, June 5.—Westminster college will honor one of the pioneer women doctors in Western Pennsylvania at its eighty-third commencement, Monday, June 7, when it places the Doctor of Science insignia on Dr. Elizabeth McLaughry, class of 1887, founder and director of Overlook Sanitarium, New Wilmington.

Dr. McLaughry graduated from the Women's Medical college, Philadelphia, in 1898; and began practice in New Castle in 1911. Since that time, she has taken two post-graduate sessions at Johns-Hopkins, and studied one year in Vienna, 1906-07. She is a member of the A. A. U. W.; the American medical association; the Women's American medical association: and the Business and Professional women's club.

As an undergraduate in Westminster, 1883-87, Dr. McLaughry was the first president of the Y. W. C. A., in its first appearance at the college; and was active in girls' sports, skating, tennis, horseback-riding, and baseball (played with the Dean of women's permission in an isolated field, where the boys couldn't watch).

Dr. McLaughry is still an active out-doors woman; rides two-hour stretches at horseback; loves to go fishing; and gardens for a hobby. She is the second woman in twenty years to be honored by Westminster with an honorary degree.

Troopers Guard Court House In Michigan Town

(International News Service)

MUNISING, Mich., June 5.—Acting under orders from Governor Frank Murphy, state officers and all available police officers in this northern Michigan woods area were concentrated here today to prevent a reported attempt of striking lumberjacks to seize the Alger county courthouse.

Meanwhile, in Newberry, 60 miles away, authorities made preparations to summon armed vigilantes with fire whistles if the striking lumberjacks carry out their threats to invade that town of 2,700 again and "tear it apart".

Film Dancers File Charges After Ranch Party

PATRICIA DOUGLAS — GINGER WYATT

The Hollywood movie colony is shaken by charges of a mass orgy when 100 film dancers were recruited to furnish entertainment at a motion picture company's sales convention. Patricia Douglas, 19, one of the dancers, shown at left, alleges she was outraged at a party which was staged in a circus tent on an isolated ranch. Ginger Wyatt, right, a beauty contest winner from Wichita, Kas., has supported Miss Douglas' charges, according to authorities. Both testified that they thought they were called for movie work instead of as entertainers.

Senator Owlett Scores Action Of Legislature

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, June 5.—"This session of the legislature is coming to a long-deferred and unlamented end. It would have been better for the people of the commonwealth if it never had begun."

With these razor-edged words, Sen. G. Mason Owlett, Tioga, Republican national committeeman, on Friday afternoon sounded the final G. O. P. protest to the administration's legislative program in the state.

In caustic terms Owlett addressed the upper chamber as it marked time awaiting enactment of the remainder of the Earle program in the house. He asserted:

"It would be a God-send if the partisan and unsound enactments of this session, which in a major way constitutes its record, could be wiped from the statute books.

Unparalleled Rippers

"The ripper legislation of this session, unparalleled in the history of the commonwealth, has been decked out in the cloak of self-righteousness, but the masquerade has fooled nobody. Its sole objective was to remake the city of Philadelphia to the wishes of two contractors, and to create more Democratic jobs for more Democratic drones, at the expense of the taxpayers of the state.

"That legislation, together with commission investigations upon which upward of $150,000 has been spent for no useful result, while not a dollar could be had for constructive inquiries out of which inestimable benefits might have been had, is further confirmation of the fact the Democratic party is bidding for political support by fooling the people.

Economy Kicked Out

"Loudly touted efficiency and fervently pledged economy have been kicked out of the window. A plunder system of political aggrandizement has been substituted in their stead. A hypocrisy has been the Democratic watchword throughout the session."

Of the administration's tax legislation the Republican floor leader declared:

"I do not believe that any industry or enterprise, whether it be a distillery or a railroad, a meat packer or a public utility, should be subjected to unfair taxation. But when the Democratic party of Pennsylvania elects to hurl at the poor, moderately circumstanced people of the state an additional tax of more than $2,250,000 upon food, while relieving the distillers of a part of the taxes they have borne, it is time the affected families know these facts.

"The crop of legislative goldbricks under the Democratic control of this legislature is without parallel in the long history of this state. Only a Huey Long could compete.

Probe Hollywood Alleged Revel

Some Of Most Brilliant Masculine Film Stars Are Reported As Participants

(International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD, June 5.—Some of the most brilliant masculine stars in filmdom's glittering firmament have been named as participants in the sensational champagne revel now under investigation, it was learned today.

Their names were injected into the case as district attorney's agents questioned the 100 beautiful film dancers who were called upon to become companions of the evening for leaders at a studio sales convention party, held on an isolated ranch.

Whether the stars were active or passive participants was not disclosed as authorities checked the story of Patricia Douglas, 20-year-old film extra. That she was plied with liquor and then ravished in an automobile when she left the revel "for a breath of air."

As District Attorney Buron Fitts ordered a corps of investigators into action, Hollywood was in a nervous condition as potentialities of the case were considered.

Identity of the "big man in the brown suit" named by Miss Douglas as her attacker, was not disclosed. There were conflicting statements that he was a prominent Chicago sales executive for the studio and that he was a Hollywood resident.

Fitts said a statement would be taken "forthwith" from the man and that he will be prosecuted if the charges are substantiated. Whether the case will be laid before the grand jury was uncertain pending completion of the investigation.

Compromise On Tax Publicity Is Considered

"Indiscriminate Publicity" On Tax Returns To Be Attacked In House

MAY MAKE PUBLIC SOME OF RETURNS

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 5.—A fight on the floor of the House to halt "indiscriminate publicity" of income tax returns, banned under present law, was foreseen today as a tentative agreement was reached by House leaders to permit publicity by the proposed joint congressional investigating committee.

The tentative compromise agreed to by leaders of the rules committee who opposed the relaxation of the anti-publicity provisions of the present law would make it possible for the joint congressional committee to make public returns of taxpayers who have avoided income taxes legally.

Approval Forecast

The proposed compromise will first be submitted to the full house rules committee on Monday. Approval of the committee was forecast, with the fight then being transferred to the floor of the House.

Rep. O'Connor (D) of New York, chairman of the rules committee, who fought repeal of publicity provisions of the income tax laws as a part of the resolution creating the committee to investigate avoidance and evasion of taxes, was said to have modified his stand.

Approve Publicity

Under the tentative compromise agreement, the joint congressional committee would be required to approve the publicity given to returns of each taxpayer. But the committee could select one of the rich taxpayers assailed by President Roosevelt and make public his returns even though the taxpayer had acted on legal advice.

WAR IN SPAIN NOT INTERNAL

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, June 5—The war in Spain has just illustrated again how difficult it is for the United States to remain neutral when hostilities break out somewhere else in the world—hostilities that Uncle Sam has no interest in and devoutly wishes to keep out of.

To begin with, our neutrality legislators enacted law banning shipments of American supplies to belligerents in any international clash involving two or more foreign countries. There was more to it than that, but the nub of it was that we did not propose to be drawn into any international musses. International! Get that?

Immediately afterward Spain's civil strife started. Internal strife. Not international. At least at that stage of the game the fighting was supposed to be purely internal.

LAW DID NOT FIT

Well, our law did not fit that kind of a conflict.

Opposing factions within one country, were entitled, regardless of our international prohibition, to buy from us the wherewithal to slaughter one another.

True, we relatedly amended our enactment to cover Spain's case.

It was done only by the skin of our teeth, however.

And, even so, it remains possible for some country, other than Spain, to buy fireworks here and transship them to the Spaniards—loyalist to rebel.

* * *

INTERNATIONAL FIGHT

Subsequently it has developed that the Spanish trouble is not, in reality, civil.

Britain, France and Russia favor the Spanish loyalists.

Italy and Germany favor the Spanish rebels.

These five countries have pretended to maintain a policy of joint neutrality in Spain, but everyone knows that that has been largely hypocritical.

Mayne there has been a modicum of good faith as to Britain, France and Russia. Italy and Germany notoriously have been helping the Spanish rebels; of late they have been helping the latter avowedly—as "reprisals."

* * *

SPAIN THE BATTLEGROUND

In short, the Spanish loyalists have recognized the Germans and Italians as enemies—by shooting at them.

The Germans have retaliated, and the Italians support them.

It is, in effect, a war between the Spanish loyalists, backed by Britain, France and Russia, and the Spanish rebels backed by Italy and German.

Or, putting it another way:

It is a war for Spain between Britain, France and Russia versus Italy and Germany.

* * *

A DIFFICULT SITUATION

But Britain, France and Russia have been fairly circumspect.

It is difficult for Uncle Sam to shut off THEIR supplies on the ground that they will pass them on to the Spanish loyalists.

On the opposite hand, everyone with an ounce of sense is aware that Italy and Germany are passing on help to the Spanish rebels.

Then, what is Uncle Sam to do?—Ban shipments to everybody, as belligerents in general?—when he isn't sure that Britain, France and Russia are on a belligerent status as well as Italy and Germany?

Or ban shipments exclusively to Italy and Germany?—thereby implying that they alone are the mischief-makers?

Uncle Samuel cannot help taking sides, either way.

FORTY FORT MEETING HOUSE

Do you know that the Meeting House at Forty Fort, near Wilkes-Barre completed in the summer of 1807, is still in a state of splendid preservation?

Following a great revival held in the summer of 1806 by Bishop Asbury of the Methodist Church in a grove which is now a part of the cemetery adjoining the church, the Presbyterians united with their Methodist brethren in raising funds for building purposes. The Meeting House is the result. Stone and building materials were hauled by vuluntary labor during the winter of 1807, and the building itself was completed in the summer of that year. The present pews and high pulpit were installed the following winter and the structure was dedicated in June, 1808.

Jones also revealed that the junior chamber will bring one of the nation's renowned bands to New Castle for a concert on September 20.

Farewell Party Held By Ninth Grade At School

Ben Franklin School Scene Of May Queen Crowning Friday Afternoon

A farewell party was staged by members of the ninth grade of Ben Franklin Junior High school, Friday afternoon, before an assemblage in the auditorium of the school.

Crowning of the May Queen was the theme of the program, which was colorful from start to finish. The entire stage was decorated in a costume of spring flowers and colors.

The program opened with the crowning of Jean Wright as the Queen. Her attendants were; Stella Radkowski, Audrene Gribble, Eleanor Wade, Betty Ruby, Nellie Mott, Olga Forratora. James Cherol crowned the queen.

Fun and entertainment was derived from two court jesters, Don Howard and Bill Herine. These two served throughout the program in master-of-ceremony fashion. Very clever imitations were part of the jesters act.

Maxine Bigley gave an interesting reading, followed by a tap dance by Mary Hahn and Betty Montgomery.

Coming out on the stage radiant with smiles was the May Festival Chorus, which included the following: Doris Lennig, Beryle Morgan, Rose Sacco, Bernice McCready, Helen Singer, Florence Fullwood, Virginia Pence, Lois Robbins, Eleanor Mariano, Gladys Reed.

Climax of the program was a May pole dance, with the following taking part: Anna Marie Lutz, Wilma Keeling, Dorothy Palko, Isabelle Scilla, Thelma Hammond, Gloria Augostine.

The performance was brought to a close with the audience being called upon for the school song, being led by the two jesters.

Teachers who were in charge of the party included: Miss Margaret Fischer, Miss Charlotte Bartlett, Miss Ingebord Hallgren, Miss Hazel Campbell and Miss Anna Shifman.

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 5.—Florence Dean, 18, was indicted today on four charges growing out of the stabbing of County Detective John C. Wall.

Miss Dean, a chambermaid in the hotel operated by Frank C. Monaghan, was riding with her employer the night he stabbed Wall. Monaghan later died while being questioned in the Fayette county courthouse, precipitating the sensational "third degree" cases.

Wall filed an information against Miss Dean last October, charging she held his hands while Monaghan slashed him. She is at liberty under $2500 bail. Charges of assault and battery with intent to kill and three minor assault charges were contained in the indictment.

Sanute Declines To Be Witness

Defense May Seek To Force Ex-Trooper To Testify In Reilly Case

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 5.—Apparently angered by Anthony Sanute's flat refusal to aid the defense of Fayette county district attorney, James A. Reilly, the latter's attorneys today considered taking action to force the ex-trooper to the witness stand as the third of the Monaghan trials wound up its fourth week.

Sanute, who was acquitted of complicity in the alleged "third degree" questioning which led to the death of Frank C. Monaghan, 64, Uniontown innkeeper, remained adamant in his refusal to testify, contending that since he was now out of the case, he didn't "want to be dragged in again."

Chief defense counsel John Duggan, Jr., declared it was possible to force Sanute to take the stand but that he and his associates had not decided as yet what their future action would be.

AROUND CITY HALL

Bathing pool at Cascade Park has not yet been opened for the season. It was indicated a week ago that it would be opened within the near future. It was built by Billy Glenn and is one of the best pools in this part of the country. Practically all the other concessions at the park are in operation.

There were not many auto accidents in the city this week. However, there were several in which bicycles and automobiles were concerned. According to a recent statement made by Chief of police Ralph A. Criswell the bicyclists are supposed to obey all the regulations imposed on autoists.

Anyone caught placing a slug in any of the meters after they are installed may be fined from $1.00 to $50.00, according to the ordinance governing the meters. The meter ordinance also provides that every auto must be parked properly in its space, 20 feet if parked parallel and 10 feet if parked diagonal.

May Complete P.W.A. Projects

House Committee Would Complete Those For Which Application Has Been Made

PENNSYLVANIA MAY GET FUNDS

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Continuation of the Public Works Administration for two years, with funds provided to complete projects for which applications have been made, was approved Friday by the house appropriations committee as a part of the administration program.

The committee reported that PWA, under Secretary of Interior Ickes, will have $132,000,000 available for grants for construction of schools, power projects and similar undertakings. It will have $124,000,000 for loans, and an additional $3,000,000 was provided for administrative expenses.

The measure contemplates liquidation of PWA in two years. It carries a provision requiring substantial completion of all projects by July 1, 1939.

The only changes necessary in the present law, the committee said, are continuation of the PWA and grant of the right to sell $40,000,000 more of securities pledged to the RFC by states and other local governmental agencies.

"There has been great demand and pressure from many sources for continuation of the PWA and the making of grants," said the committee report.

"Naturally there would be and will be such a sentiment so long as the federal government continues to give to communities a substantial proportion of the cost of public improvements but with the return of more normal conditions of business and a continuing and improving prosperous condition in all sections of the country, the federal government must, of necessity, as soon as possible, withdraw from this emergency field."

Hearings made public in connection with the bill showed PWA work has been brought to a virtual standstill by an executive order requiring use of relief labor. Under a compromise agreement reached when the relief bill was passed, this order will be rescinded by President Roosevelt.

State construction work which should be completed, Secretary Ickes testified, included: State of Pennsylvania, $90,000,000 loans and grants; Kentucky, $1,800,000 grant; Colorado, $3,000,000 grant.

All housing projects under way or planned by PWA also would be completed under the proposed extension, he said. The committee report said that expenditures will include replacement of hazardous school projects and other similar projects at a cost of $19,000,000.

New Naval Quota Creates Openings For Local Men

Recruiter Nixon Now Taking Applications For Enlistment In Navy

A recent quota sent from the Navy department for recruits from the New Castle district, states that there are now a total of 20 vacancies in existance for district men. According to Maurice Nixon, local recruiting officer, any person applying for enlistment in this service must have an education equivalent to that of a high school graduate.

Nixon also states that he is in a position to examine applicants for the existing vacancies. Any men if accepted for naval service has two courses in this branch of the government from which to choose. He may either apply to sea duty and be assigned to a ship for the duration of his enlistment, or he may take a competitive examination for admittance to one of the navy's many trade schools.

At these schools, an education equal to a college course is received, at no cost at all to the sailor. This knowledge may be used to advantage following his discharge from the service in securing a position in an occupation as a private citizen.

Complete information regarding the various branches of service and other requirements for enlistment may be secured by applying at the local office in the federal building

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Let me take part of the column and sort of live last night again . . . it was Nellie Brady's review that we attended . . . a glamorous affair and the best show in her ten years of reviewing . . . the costumes were the latest creations and those kids . . . the finest in the land . . . quite a few faces were familiar but we noticed a good many that were very strange . . . faces didn't matter last night . . . feet were the main attraction . . . and how they did fly . . . we counted 102 tap dancers . . . some lot.

* * *

The hillbillies and cowhands were fine . . . may we ask a little question . . . when did the hillbillies start living in the golden west . . . it didn't spoil the effect but we were interested.

* * *

A word to what we considered the highlight . . . we were treated to a very unusual combination . . . I mean on the stage of course . . . on the street . . . that's different . . . it was a very graceful dance . . . Miss Brady and Edward Marvin . . . that was something . . . I wish all of New Castle had been there for that dance. . . we didn't know you could do it Ed. . . . Nellie you have made something out of the boy.

* * *

A day like today makes one glad he is well and happy . . . the streets are crowded with sightseers and the circus men make the color . . . what is more real than the color of the human being.

* * *

It would be nice if some of the landlords could find enough money to repaint some of their buildings . . . since rent has gone up there should be some extra money around . . . such buildings as the one on the corner of Mill and Washington . . . the northwest side of the street.

* * *

Well today is circus day as we said before . . . Monday I expect to have some very interesting news . . . you know something unusual . . . at least for this column it will be unusual . . .

* * *

Have a good time with all our entertainment tonight.
